STYLE STARS

BRADLEY COOPER

You've seen him in Yes Man, Wedding Crashers, and most recently The Hangover, which catapulted the quipster onto centre stage. Cooper is known for his quick wit as well as his sharp sense of style. The actor shines in bespoke 3-piece suits and single-breasted tuxedos rounded off with a classic bow tie. From day to day, catch him out with his ladies - beauty Renée Zellweger and Charlotte, his loyal chow-retriever mix, in a casual blend of half-tucked shirts and distressed denim.

* CRISTIANO RONALDO

The 25-year-old striker for Real Madrid has joined the ranks of greats like David Beckham, Luis Figo, and Thierry Henry, to head the Spring/Summer 2010 campaign for Italian brand Emporio Armani, which also features Transformers temptress Megan Fox. "Giorgio Armani is a legend in the fashion world and I have long been a fan of his work," said the Portuguese soccer player. The athlete is known for his fashionable edge opting for slim-fitting suits and dress shirts, securing relaxed denim with designer belts and finishing his look with structured blazers and trendy cropped jackets.

* DRAKE

Canadian actor Aubrey 'Drake' Graham broke into the music industry in a big way in 2009. The rising rap star landed a record deal with Young Money/Universal, collaborated with names like Jay-Z, Kanye, Eminem and Lil' Wayne, and topped the charts with his single 'Best I Ever Had'. Drake's classic urban style also has him on the radar, outfitted in dark denim, oversized sunglasses, hoodies and high-tops. For the red carpet, the Grammy-nominated rapper shows off his personal style in crisp white dress shirts topped with lush velvet blazers and Italian fit pinstripe suits.

* JAMIE DORNAN

The Northern Irish fashion model and musician has been linked to some of the most beautiful faces in Hollywood including the likes of Keira Knightley, Lindsay Lohan, Sienna Miller, and Kate Moss. He's definitely doing something right. Dornan has a sleek yet dishevelled style mix, favouring plaid shirts and pairing tweed blazers with faded denim and his trusty Converse Chuck Taylors. He's also the face of Calvin Klein posing alongside Eva Mendes for their steamy Spring 2010 campaign.
